

*Kate Stephens
Desert Narrative, Circa 1930*

SAN DIEGO NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM

SAN DIEGO NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM

~~word~~ of desert scenes episode

Our long expedition was nearing completion our faces were turned homeward, the horses tired with the long hard work, had pace lagged slowly over the arid way no effort was made to hasten them Frank was too familiar with the desert to urge where it was unnecessary the short twilight was near at hand.

I knew from Frank's behaviour and the horses also that camp was not so very far off so all four of us quiet, tired, worn but slowly and quietly watched, for the camping place it was ~~not~~^{the} first time I had ever been at this place and my interest was suddenly awakened when I saw before us a steep hill probably half or a mile of almost straight steep rough road but what made us all pick up interest was, at the base of the hill a tiny spark of fire flickered. The horses raised their heads and slowly picked up their ears I set up straight ~~forgetting~~ my slumping attitude. some one must be down there I remarked yes said Frank and it ~~must~~ is someone that knows the desert I was not surprised at this remark so often had he made some such remark where I could see nothing his eyes and knowledge it planned a whole episode I tried to imagine how the person down there should know the desert so after a little said how do you know that it is the last place they can get wood he said no more was said we watched that tiny flare shivering now ^{then} disappearing again behind some larger rock or bend of the road we trudged on slowly and the twilight slowly crept up at last the bottom of the hill and almost darkness the camp fire glowed near but a little off the road a form came out of the darkness and caught hold of the rail of the seat next to me "Have you got a little water" a tried voice said.

Trunk stopped the horses and leaned over to me and said why it is Mr carpenter with it the face peered over to him and then leaving hold of the wagon rail threw his arms over his head and almost shouted why its Mr Stephen its Master Stephen's I am all right now I am all right now ^{its my stephen's} Trunk ~~suspect~~ rains to the daily board slowly slipped slowly down and the two men walked off ^{also} leaving me on the wagon I knew it was all right now ^{so} slowly climbing out and walking to the back of the wagon my stiff limbs could hardly hold me up I tried to loosen the

SAN DIEGO
APR 12
3:30 PM
1930
CALIF.
S 2

Frank and Kate Stephens 3746 Park Blvd
San Diego

ail board to get some of the things for getting supper at least there was a fire already started it was but a minute or two when the two men came back and Frank took the canteen of water and they both went off again I could do no more the grub box and box with pots and pans were too heavy for me to lift so gathering up a few things I made up the fire and back they came the man bethay excitedly Frank saying nothing the grub box down and some Quail skinned and coffee on supper was would have been keen had I it appeared that this man to take home a sick horse further and had fallen down heel given his last drop of water about nine miles from home expected to have to walk hot desert he was bad bred to leave the horse can you wonder at his excitement at seeing my Frank the very sight of him removed all worry he was saved he knew that whatever could be done for the sick horse would be done and that a supper was right there and that tomorrow a ride on the wagon home was his & Brooks Quail coffee beans, vanillaed, beds made a last look at the dying horse and sleep sweet sleep such as can only come from an all day's ride The gravelly ground might be hard for my achey bones and the stars shining so bright simply faded out of my ken as I lost myself asleep in the open desert.

SAN DIEGO NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM